

Don't just make a website. Make an impact.

Register.com provides all the essential tools a business needs to build and manage their online presence. Leveraging ten years of experience in the domain business with over two and a half million domain names under management, Register.com has built a reputation as a leading provider of global domain name registration, web design and management services.

Business Need: When Steven Vine, Deputy General Counsel for Register.com, came to work for the company, he found that contracts were stored in filing cabinets and on individual hard drives, making it difficult to track and manage key details that could impact the business. For example, contract renewals would often come up suddenly, catching the company's legal team by surprise and giving them little time to respond.

Why Register.com chose Mumboe: Vine evaluated several document management systems, but says he found them too complex and expensive. "One of the nice things about Mumboe, in comparison to those other systems, is that it's focused on contract management, it fits my budget, and because they have a per-user pricing model, we can start small," he says. "Mumboe offers an impressive set of document collaboration features in a simple, affordable solution."